Russell County ‘Run With All Your Hart’ event includes several Clinton runners, CCHS Cross County squad

Cross Country runners Glen England, Joe Davis and Frank England crossed the finish line during Saturday’s “Run with all your Hart” race. The team used the race as a scrimmage, but wanted to show its support by competing in the event. (Photo courtesy of Dan Hedgespeth)

More than 2,900 people participated in last weekend’s “Run with all your Hart” to celebrate the life of Sarah Hart, a Russell County native who was murdered in June while on a morning run.

The event was organized by Hart’s friends and family and had a following that reached beyond the boundaries of Russell County.

Runners and athletes alike from Clinton County also participated in the event, including the entire Clinton County Cross Country team, recently putting the event on its official schedule as a scrimmage run.

Head Coach Dipesh Soma said the event was special to say the least.

“It was a touching atmosphere I will have to say,” Soma said. “You hate to do it for that circumstance, but you knew it was for a good reason. The beginning speech and the ending speech was very touching. Our hearts go out to the Hart family.”

Hart was a pharmacist in Russell County and was pregnant with her fourth child

Council accepts deed for new fire station location

Albany City Council has a deed for property for a proposed new fire station, city tax rates will remain unchanged and the utility line relocation project for the US 127 Bypass is on schedule.

Those were a few of the items of business discussed at the regular meeting of City Council last Tuesday evening, August 7 with all members present.

The council briefly discussed the acceptance of a deed of conveyance from the county for land to build a proposed new fire department building. The structure would be located in north Albany, between the Twin Lakes Family Wellness Center and EMS building and Air Evac base.

The council, on a motion by James “Smitty” Smith, voted unanimously to accept the deed, which is contingent on the city receiving grant funds to construct the new facility. Should the project not come to pass, the deed would revert back to the county.

Albany Mayor Nicky Smith said he felt the prospects were good that grant funds would be awarded to construct the new building and noted a public hearing on the proposal for a new fire station was

Hershell Key leaving position with Community Action Agency

Hershell Key has always enjoyed being involved in politics, but in the past, his involvement has been either from the outside looking in, or in the organizational mode.

This year, Key has shifted gears and is instead working the political arena as a candidate.

This year, he has decided to throw his hat in the ring and run for Fifth District Magistrate during an upcoming special election. That district covers the Illwill and Speck Communities.

Key will be running as the Republican party’s candidate, chosen to appear on the ballot to fill the unexpired term that was vacated when second term fifth district magistrate Charlotte Bernard resigned the position after being hired as the Clinton County Superintendent of Schools.

Now, the fifth district magisterial position is involving yet another resignation as well, as Key had to resign from his position as Outreach Specialist for Clinton County.

Key’s resignation comes as a part of the Hatch Act which restricts the political activity of individuals principally employed by state or local executive agencies and who work in connection with programs financed in whole or in part by

Fiscal court meets in special session

Clinton County Fiscal Court dealt with several issues, heard various presentations and approved road aid funding during a special call meeting Tuesday morning with all court members on hand. The meeting was held in lieu of the regular meeting of Thursday, August 16, which was cancelled.

Prior to the official start of the meeting, Pauline Conner invited court members to the annual Clinton County Farm Bureau business meeting and dinner, which will be held Thursday, September 13 at 6 p.m. at the fairgrounds.

In regular business on the meeting agenda, the court first approved the monthly treasurer’s report, a fund transfer from the occupational tax fund to the ambulance service fund and first reading of a budget amendment to add carryover funds from the 2011-12 fiscal year, as presented by County Treasurer Dallas Sidwell.

Judge Executive Lyle Huff then discussed KRS statutes

School board meets Monday

Clinton County Board of Education held a lengthy regular meeting Monday evening with all board members present before an initially packed house, but emptied somewhat after several CCHS students were recognized for academic achievements. The board also heard other presentations and voted to propose keeping the same tax rates as in years past, among several other items of business.

The board first recognized high school students for academic work, including Governor’s Scholars Troy Butler and Destiny Guffey and Roger’s Scholars Jacob Williams and Lamont Tyler Hubbs.

Several students were also recognized for achievement in

Ashley Stearns enjoys chance of a lifetime to work in Washington D.C. as a summer intern

U.S. Congressman Ed Whitfield spent some time meeting Clinton County’s Ashley Stearns recently during her summer internship with a large legal firm in Washington D.C.

While most college students spend their summer vacation months either working summer jobs or taking summer classes, Clinton County’s Ashley Stearns used her time off from classes at Eastern Kentucky University to enjoy what she is calling a “remarkable experience.”

Stearns, a 2010 Clinton County High School graduate, spent the summer months interning for a large law firm.

The opportunity fits right along with Stearns’ plans on pursuing a career in law, plans that would include attending law school when she graduates from ECU in 2013.

It wasn’t the fact that she was able to intern with a law firm that made the experience so remarkable for Stearns, it was the

Filing activity picks up as deadline nears

As of this publication date, filing for non-partisan races in Albany and Clinton County had officially past. That deadline, however, was Tuesday, August 14 at 4 p.m. (too late for press deadline.)

As of noon Saturday, August 11--just two working days prior to the aforementioned deadline, filing had picked up considerably, all among persons seeking one of six seats that make up the Albany City Council.

Some five additional candidates had tossed their hats into the ring for council member since the prior Saturday, including three incumbents and two former council members.

Those who filed between noon August 4 and August 11 included incumbent council members Mary Faye Stockton, Frankie Stockton and James “Smitty” Smith. Two former council members, Raymond Shelton, who was also a former Albany Police Chief, and James Bray, who was also a candidate for mayor two years ago, have also

Get ready for Cloverville

Sources: Kim Adams Foster, 4-H youth development specialist

Summer's here, and before you know it, the Kentucky State Fair and Cloverville will be in full swing. This year, the state fair is Aug. 16-26. Cloverville is an annual state fair attraction. Located in the West Hall of the Kentucky Exposition Center in Louisville, Cloverville offers an opportunity for 4-Hers to showcase their abilities and compete for statewide ribbons and awards. Regardless of whether they win at the state fair, the young people who have exhibits at Cloverville are already winners, as they had to win their county competition to advance to the state level. What you see in Cloverville is good examples of 4-H and the work ethic of 4-Hers; some of these projects took weeks, months and sometimes an entire year for young people to complete. Project areas can range from entomology to knitting and everything in between. Youth eligible to exhibit from Clinton County include Savannah Stockton, Konner Gibson, Carly Upchurch, Makaya Gregory, and Ansley Stalcup.

Not only can you view these exhibits in Cloverville, but also you can vote for your favorite ones each day of the fair. In addition to awards given by judges, the public has the opportunity to select their favorite project with the People's Choice Award. The award is given daily to the project with the most votes.

In addition to the project exhibits, 4-Hers will be on-hand showcasing their skills through projects such as mannequin modeling and on-site competitions. Mannequin modeling gives participants the chance to model an outfit they have designed and constructed. On-site competitions include Lego wars and 4-H's version of "Cupcake Wars."

For more information about Cloverville events, contact the Clinton County Cooperative Extension Service.

Educational programs of the Cooperative Extension Service serve all people regardless of race, color, sex, religion, disability or national origin.

Good Neighbors Theatre to audition for next production

Good Neighbors Theatre announces auditions for its upcoming fall production, Opal is a Diamond by John Patrick, which will be presented the last two weekends in October.

Auditions will be held on Monday and Tuesday, August 20 and 21 at 6:00 pm at the Good Neighbors Theatre building on Highway 111, Byrdstown.

We were introduced to Opal last fall in the phenomenally popular Everybody Loves Opal.

Opal is a Diamond is the second in the series of Opal plays written by Mr. Patrick. This play continues the uproarious misadventures of the lovable and irrepressible Opal Kronkie in typically zany fashion—with mile-a-minute action, nonstop laughter and a warm-hearted moral.

The slapstick plot concerns Opal's half-baked attempt to run for mayor against the corrupt, hypocritical incumbent. Backing Opal are two of the incumbent's former aides, eager to expose him.

The rest of her campaign staff consists of four common working stiff and a neighbor who's more eccentric than Opal is.

There are major roles for three women and two men with minor parts for four to six others.

For more information contact director Melva Nunnery at 931-864-3515.

South Kentucky RECC wants to keep people safe in auto accidents involving power lines

In traumatic situations, it may be instinctive to flee as soon as possible. A car accident is a good example of this. However, if you are in a car accident with a power line, the safest place is often inside the car.

"Knowledge is crucial in keeping South Kentucky RECC members and everyone involved in a car accident safe," says Eddie Black, SKRECC Safety Team Leader. "We want to make sure that everyone has the knowledge to stay safe in accidents with power poles."

Power poles carry high, potentially fatal levels of electricity. If you are in an accident with one, your whole vehicle may be charged with electricity. If you step out, you will become the electricity's path to the ground and could be killed by an electric shock. Loose wires and other equipment may be in contact with your car or near it. If you accidentally touch these, it can be fatal. Arcing electricity and electrical sparks from damaged power poles pose additional dangers, but lines do not have to be arcing or sparking to be dangerous.

The only circumstance when you should exit the vehicle is if it is on fire. If you must exit the vehicle, jump clear of it with your feet together, and continue to "bunny hop" with your feet together so that you will not have different strengths of electric current running from one foot to another.

Car accidents with downed lines are not just dangerous for those involved. Well-meaning bystanders may try to approach the car to help. Warn them to stay away from the accident until utility professionals and emergency responders have confirmed that there are no electrical dangers.

South Kentucky RECC encourages you to share what you know about electrical safety with friends, family, and new drivers, so they will know what to do in a car accident with a power pole.

Singing at Cave Springs Baptist

Dean McKinley and “Higher Call” will be in concert Sunday, August 19 at 6:30 p.m. at Cave Springs Baptist Church. Everyone is welcome to attend.

“I’ve Been Waiting Fifty Years To Hear That”

Let’s Go Soul Winning

By the late Dr. Jack Hyles

Recently when I finished preaching I asked the people who wanted to be saved to raise their hands. Five people raised their hands; four came. The one who did not come was a man 65 years of age. After a few stanzas of the invitation song I slipped back while people’s heads were bowed and quietly said, “My name is Jack Hyles. What’s yours?”

He told me. I said, “Let me tell you how you can be saved.” I told him how to be saved while folks were singing the invitation song. He came down the aisle and received Christ as his Saviour. After the services I shook his hand and he looked at me with a smile on his face and moist eyes and said, “Reverend, I’ve been waiting fifty years for someone to tell me what you told me tonight.”

The next week I was preaching and won a middle-aged lady to Christ in the services in the invitation time. Before she came forward she said, “Dr. Hyles, eighteen years ago someone led my girl friend to Christ. I saw that someone do it. That moment that I saw my friend get saved I said, ‘I wish that soul winner would talk to me next.’ For some reason, the soul winner never asked me. I saw someone do that eighteen years ago, and I’ve wanted someone to do it to me for eighteen years.”

She had to wait eighteen years. How long must folks wait? That elderly man had to wait fifty years.

That reminds me of two sweet experiences I have had in this town in years gone by. I was in the Black Oak section visiting one day. I knocked on the door of a house. A little lady came to the door. I said, “My name is Jack Hyles. I’m pastor of the First Baptist Church.” She began to weep.

She said, “Pastor, I was praying for a preacher to come to see me when you knocked on my door.”

That reminds me of a sweet experience on Truman Street in Hammond. I was out visiting and was supposed to visit a Mrs. Turner on Indiana Street. Indiana is just one block from Truman Street, and I got the words “Truman” and “Turner” mixed up. I went to the right number but the wrong street - a block away I walked up and said, “Mrs. Turner?”

She said, “No.”

I said, “This is ... (and I mentioned the house number).”

She said, “Yes, this is.”

I said, “This is Indiana?”

She said, “No, it’s Truman.”

I said, “Forgive me. I have the right number but the wrong street,” and I turned to walk away. She did not know who I was. I got halfway down the steps and thought, “She has a soul too.” I went back up the stairs and said, “Wait a minute. My name is Jack Hyles. I’m pastor of First Baptist Church.” When I said that she began to shake violently. She trembled and cried.

She said, “Reverend, when you knocked on my back door I was on my knees at the couch asking God to send someone to help me find Him.”

How long must they wait? I wonder how many people are waiting today for someone to tell them the way to Heaven? It may be your neighbor, your loved one, your friend. How long must they wait?

Jacarepagua Brazil 2012 Project Report

This mission project was conducted July 13-23, 2012 in Rio de Janeiro, Brazil and included 35 Americans from Texas, Tennessee, Florida, Louisiana, and Kentucky who worked with 32 missionaries from Chile, Argentina, Paraguay, Spain and other locations in Brazil.

Fourteen churches participated and a total of 1,081 indicated they prayed to accept Christ as Lord and Savior. We also spoke in two additional churches that were not participating in the project with the hopes they would join in future projects.

Laura Meloti, Glauca Martins and Daniel Cabellero did great work with logistics. The Leadership Team supplied a generous budget and Reyburn Ruhl did a great job with arrangements. Gary Godkin and Keith McWhorter worked well together with coordination. It was a blessing having the Life-Way team participate. They are always well prepared and a joy to minister with.

Some of the churches were well prepared with evidence of Operation Andrew present, others not so much but God worked mightily through each church. Several venues were available to include homes, Home for the Blind, churches, missions, day care centers, a leper hospital, local bars where we saw people pray to accept Christ and offices. Many divine appointments were also experienced. Over 300 Bibles were distributed.

Bro. Derrell Monday did a great job challenging the large audience to go and share as the opening rally speaker. Dr. Bob Utley gave an awesome appeal for discipleship and follow up at an overflow crowd at the Victory Rally.

Both spoke with tremendous passion and emotion that stirred many hearts in the crowd. Pastor Jonanias, Jacarapagua Baptist leader, made a strong appeal for discipleship and follow up as well.

He proposed a joint meeting of all the participating churches in August to have a mass baptism and fellowship at his church. This was agreed upon and is planned. Over 280 discipleship booklets were given to pastors and leaders to assist them with a structured program of discipleship. Two of the reasons we go is to encourage the church and mentor evangelism. It was such a blessing to see the excitement level in the churches rise to a crescendo by week’s end.

In Brazil and other Latin cultures where activity begins late in the morning or afternoon and continues to late evening, we recommend letting participants sleep an extra hour or two in the morning and leave for churches later. This would reduce fatigue and possibly sickness.

Alex Beard of KY said, “Wow, it’s really hard to pick one specific event because there were just so many amazing ones. This week has truly been the best week of my life.”

Alex’s mother, Lisa Beard, echoed this saying this was the best week of her life.

“God has blessed me so much. One event that sticks out to me is one of God’s divine interventions. Our pastor dropped us off at this bar/restaurant because the lady that ran it came to our church. Of course the lady did not speak English so we thought we were going to stay there till he came back with the interpreter,” Alex continued. “The woman was keeping a close eye on us so we decided to show her the EvangeCube with the Portuguese instructions. The woman understood what we were trying to say to her. I knew it was truly Jesus Christ. It’s amazing how He can break down language barriers. The interpreter arrived and this lady accepted Christ. God had a plan for my family to be there although it was not on our schedule. I will never forget this mission to Brazil. There’s no greater joy than serving our Lord and Savior!”

Pastor Jeff D. of TX, “Having the opportunity to travel with people from various parts of America all going to share the gospel is a rare thing; just meeting and working with them was encouraging. Watching my own church members returning in the evening from a long day of sharing Christ with others was certainly the highlight of my day. The exciting part was to watch people who had never shared their testimony or the gospel getting so emotional at the individuals and families that they had the privilege to see receive Christ as their personal Savior. My prayer is that as each team member returns home to their respective churches, that the excitement and emotion that they experienced becomes contagious. (Pastor Jeff with great emotion told the group, “My life will never be the same.”)

Juanita R. of LA, “This was my 8th mission trip and this was one of the most rewarding ones that I have been on. This was my first trip with IC and I really felt like we made a difference in the Favelas we visited and shared with. I will have no problem recommending IC trips in the future.”

Jana G. of TX, “I was impressed with how the church worked and took part in helping the whole week. We had different drivers, people who cooked and many volunteered to be interpreters. I was very impressed with how well the young interpreters did. By the end of the week our two main interpreters, Salem and Tamila, were using the EvangeCube to witness to people. They were very excited about learning how to do this. The Joy of the Lord was evident and flowing from everyone!”

Teri R. of TX, “I thoroughly enjoyed walking through the Favelas and the ease of use of the tract which had my testimony inside. It helped me to precisely and easily share the Gospel. Without having any experience, I saw 17 different people come to Christ in one day. What a blessing!”

Pam W. of FL, “On Friday night we were told that traffic was so bad that we could not get to our home visits across town. The people from those homes attempted to come to us but the road was also blocked with traffic. As we found ourselves sitting at the church, the primary cook came to us stating it has been the happiest week of her life. She said after she had finished cooking, she did not want to leave the church. She said she is not a Christian but would like to become one. I told her I would show her how but she said she had to get her husband. She returned a few moments later with him and they both prayed to receive Christ. Her daughter had been present with us but didn’t pay much attention until her mom and step-dad were praying the sinner’s prayer. I told her that one of the greatest things to know is when we die, we will see our loved ones again. I asked if she would like to receive Christ and she began to cry and said “Yes”. Following the prayer, mom and daughter embraced and cried. Then the mom told us her daughter’s heart had been so hard, but we know who softened it.”

We think it was unanimous that this mission to Rio de Janeiro, Brazil was truly a blessing!

Gary Godkin and Keith McWhorter, Project Co-ordinators pertaining to open meetings, specifically call meetings. Huff cited KRS 61.823 which states that “Any meeting which deviates from the regular schedule of meetings is a special meeting.” And part (3), The public agency shall provide written notice of the special meeting. The notice shall consist of the date, time, and place of the special meeting and the agenda. Discussion and actions at the (special) meeting shall be limited to items listed on the agenda in the notice.”

Magistrate Charlene King questioned why she had only received a copy of the special meeting notice and agenda the day before the meeting, as did the rest of the court members. The judge said he was awaiting official confirmation about the FLEX program road funds, which he needed to add to the agenda for the meeting, and word wasn’t received until late last Friday.

Huff also discussed an issue about “closed sessions,” stating the editor of the Clinton County News had been told about discussions that had been talked about in closed door sessions, which apparently weren’t specific to what can be discussed in such sessions. He noted the editor had inferred that if the situation continued, he would take the matter to the Attorney General.

Phyllis Amonett, of Ampyss, the local company which does the ambulance service billing, then addressed the court pertaining to several areas of the billing process, including collections, what is billed, what is actually reimbursed from insurance, Medicaid and Medicare as well as ambulance runs that does not get paid.

Amonett noted that the collection rate for ambulance service runs between May 2011 and the same month this year was 92 percent, three percent above the previous year and well above the 69 percent being collected before Ampyss took over the collections for the service.

The negative news, however, is that the average monthly collections, despite the higher percentage collection rate, was $52,795 when it would actually take approximately $70,000 a month for the ambulance service to break even.

Amonett noted there was simply not a high enough run volume in Clinton County for the service to break even, saying there would need to be around 270 runs made per month--as opposed to the current average of around 209 runs a month.

Magistrate Larry Hatfield also questioned the high amount of 13.75 percent of “non-collectable” bills. Amonett explained those were runs that included persons without insurance, or indigent persons and in some cases “signal 8’s” in which an ambulance may be called to a scene and even provide medical service, but the patient refuses to be transferred to a medical facility.

Amonett also explained the process of billing insurance companies, Medicaid and Medicare and the approximate amounts each of those entities actually pay compared to the cost for an ambulance run. She also expressed some concerns about the new health care legislation, which may mean that less revenue would be coming in from areas such as Medicaid and Medicare.

At the conclusion of the Ampyss representative’s presentation, Judge Huff noted that eventually, the county would have to purchase another ambulance or two, and since most grant funds are not there anymore, they may have to purchase one on a low-interest loan program.

Tracy Reed, a jail consultant with the Kentucky Department of Corrections, also addressed the court on the judge/executive’s request.

The judge/executive asked Reed about what the scenario would be if the local jail--which is only one of four Life Safety jails still open in the state--would have to close.

Reed said in such a case, the county would have to contract with another county (or counties) to house local inmates, negotiate the costs per prisoner per day and also look at transportation costs and stressed that regardless of who they may have to contract with, would be responsible for paying medical expenses for inmates who need medical care.

Magistrate King asked who would make the determination if an inmate asked for medical care but didn’t actually need it. Reed responded that any inmate who requested to see a doctor could not be denied access and it was up to the doctor or nurse, if such is on staff, to make a determination if treatment of any kind is actually needed.

Magistrate Ricky Craig asked what the current booking fee is at the jail, with jailer Gene Ferrill saying it was $20 currently. He also added, however, that over 80 percent of inmates are considered indigent and usually can’t or otherwise won’t pay for fees or medical expenses they incur while incarcerated.

Judge Huff then said if it wasn’t for the local judicial judges working to help put many inmates on home incarceration when possible to help alleviate the number of prisoners, “we’d really be in trouble (financially).” Jailer Ferrill also added the Drug Court program has also helped out a lot in keeping the number of inmates down in the county.

Reed stressed that despite where an inmate is housed, which ever county they are from, that county is responsible for their upkeep, including any medical costs.

Questions also arose about the amount of staffing the jail currently has and, more importantly, the minimum requirements of people needed to work.

Reed said that at least two persons have to be on duty on each eight hour shift, and when female prisoners are housed, at least one female deputy jailer has to be on duty. She also said on busy days, such as court dates, it would take up to four people to handle the workload, even at the size of the local facility.

As of Monday, the jail had 11 total people employed, with three additional persons--including one full-time and two part-time positions, being needed.

In the past, the court has voted--usually following closed session on personnel--to hire employees at the detention center on the jailer’s recommendation. However, state statute makes it mandatory for the jailer to hire his own staff, with the court’s only responsibility being setting the pay for that employee.

Magistrate Mickey Riddle said that since the jailer hires his own staff, the court just needs to know the number of employees needed and let the jailer do the hiring himself, including replacing people. Apparently, there is a very high turnover rate of employees at the jail.

Judge Huff recommended that henceforth, the court would set the salary for each new employee at $8.50 per hour and only have the jailer present a name for the record.

Eventually Magistrate Riddle made a motion on the judge’s recommendation, including not listing specific numbers of employees, but rather allow him to hire at his own discretion and stay within the jail employee salary budget. The motion passed by unanimous vote.

Reed also said the Department of Corrections could do a staffing analysis for the jail, at no cost to the county, and Riddle also moved to have the analysis done, with that motion also passing by unanimous vote.

Judge Huff, without necessity of court action, entered into the minutes that the Clinton County Industrial Development Authority had presented its 2012-13 fiscal year budget to the court.

Andy Davis, 911 Mapping and Addressing Director, then addressed the court about a resolution involving the Kentucky Department of Transportation to name and address specific roadways that will be associated from outlets of the new bypass, including naming the bypass itself. He said people would be requesting addresses who live off the bypass, such as spur roads.

Davis also noted that soon, there would be an issue with the current, and soon to be old 127 with those addressing names having to be changed as well.

Davis and Judge Huff said the resolution referred to had been approved in 2010, but Magistrate Riddle questioned whether or not the court had actually voted to accept the roads the state had recommended that would be outlets from the bypass itself.

Riddle, in disagreeing with the call for the county taking in the roads to maintain, said “the state is dumping roads on to the county and we can’t keep up with what we’ve already got.”

Davis said that most of the bypass itself runs through three magisterial districts.

Magistrate Craig and Judge Huff recommended that a Department of Transportation official attend a future meeting to explain the resolution and the side road issue.

Treasurer Sidwell also questioned Davis about why GPS systems couldn’t pick up some roads, including the Snow Road and KY 3156. Davis said the exact addresses were not given out to anyone, and advised Sidwell to check with the GPS vendor about that issue.

The court also discussed the FLEX fund road contract and resolution.

Judge Huff said that some of the county roads requested for blacktopping by each magistrate had been knocked out, while some others had been approved.

The total amount of FLEX fund money from the state for Clinton County is $162,147 while the estimated cost for the road repairs was $222,694, or about $60,500 above the amount of funds that would be received. It was also noted that four magisterial districts had received the bulk of roads approved for blacktopping from FLEX money.

Judge Huff said the question to magistrates was whether to do all the roads approved, or stop at the $162,147, meaning some roads would have to be taken out.

Huff asked Paul Brown of Gaddie-Shamrock, who will be doing the work, if the company would do up to about $170,000 in work, take a 30-day window for the county to apply for the FLEX reimbursement funds and then finish the remaining portion of the project, which the county would pay for from its road fund.

Brown said Gaddie-Shamrock would definitely go along with that plan and a motion was then made by Magistrate King to approve the FLEX fund resolution, which passed by unanimous vote.

The next regular meeting of Clinton Fiscal Court is scheduled for September 20 at 5 p.m. and is open to the general public.

filed. All six incumbent council members have now filed for reelection and with the two former councilmen in the running, eight people had filed for seats through this past Saturday.

The school board races, however, was a different story.

As of noon Saturday, the only candidates who had filed were the three incumbents in Districts Two (Seventy Six and Cave Springs), Three (Highway, Illwill and Speck) and Four (North, East and West Albany.)

A total of 11 local candidates were seeking seats two days prior to the filing deadline, with nine of those being current office holders.

(A complete, final listing of candidates who will appear on local ballots for city council and seats on the board of education, as well as those who filed for Soil Conservation District positions, will be published in next week’s edition of the Clinton County News.)

Rogers Scholars Ambassadors donate back-to-school supplies

Rogers Scholars Ambassadors are lending a helping hand to get students in East Bernstadt Independent School District in Laurel County ready for another school year.

Former graduates of The Center for Rural Development's Rogers Scholars program—now serving as Rogers Scholars Ambassadors—have collected back-to-school supplies for pre-kindergarten through eighth-grade students in East Bernstadt schools.

These and other school items purchased through contributions will be donated to East Bernstadt students to prepare for the start of fall classes and kick off the 2012-13 school year.

The effort is part of a community service project to make a difference in the region and the residents served within The Center's 42-county primary service area of Southern and Eastern Kentucky.

Two ambassadors are selected by members of each Rogers Scholars graduating class to continue to represent them after they complete the one-week summer youth leadership program.

Rogers Scholars Ambassadors are tasked with attending meetings throughout the year, providing support for program curriculum, and carrying out community service projects. The Ambassador program was started by The Center in 2003.

The Rogers Scholars program provides leadership and scholarship opportunities for rising high school juniors to build their careers in Southern and Eastern Kentucky without having to leave home to find their futures.

WAYNE CO. OUTLOOK Monticello

Former Wayne County Assistant Attorney Rod Tejeda has been released on bond after it was lowered during a hearing in Wayne Circuit Court on Wednesday, August 1. Tejeda is charged with murder in connection with the April death of Jerus Helen Neal.

Neal died from injuries sustained in a two-vehicle collision that occurred on Main Street near the intersection with Young Street on April 19. Officials stated that Tejeda's car struck Neal's vehicle in the driver's side as she was turning from Young Street onto Main Street. She was pronounced dead a short time later at Wayne County Hospital.

Tejeda appeared in court last week with his attorneys, Tom Carroll and Lance Turner, and entered a not guilty plea during arraignment. Because of Tejeda's involvement in the local court system, a special judge and a special prosecutor have been assigned to the case.

Commonwealth's Attorney Allen Trimble will serve as prosecutor and James L. Bowling, Jr. will serve as the judge. Both were in court Wednesday for the arraignment and a bond hearing.

Tejeda's attorney had filed a motion requesting a reduction in bond from the $250,000 cash that was initially set by Circuit Judge Vernon Miniard, Jr. before he recused himself from the case.

Trimble opposed the reduction in bond, citing the circumstances of the accident that resulted in Neal's death. The circumstances he pointed out during the hearing included the speed that Tejeda was driving, which he said was in excess of 60 miles per hour at the time of the crash, as well as his blood alcohol level. Trimble also stated in court that the blood alcohol level was above the legal limit several hours after the collision.

Trimble also cited the fact that Tejeda disappeared from the Wayne County Hospital for a period of time on the day of the accident. He had been taken to the hospital for a blood test shortly after the crash.

"That causes some concern for the Commonwealth," stated Trimble.

Turner spoke on behalf of Tejeda, noting that his client is not a flight risk. He stated that nearly three months passed from the time of the accident until Tejeda was indicted, yet he remained in Wayne County. He also pointed out that Tejeda turned himself in to authorities after the indictment was returned.

Bowling noted that Tejeda had no significant criminal history. He agreed to reduce the bond to $175,000 property and set several conditions for Tejeda. The defendant was ordered to surrender his passport and driver's license. He will be subject to MCR monitoring and is not allowed to leave the county except for doctor's appointments.

Tejeda will also be subject to random drug and alcohol tests.

Bowling set February 13, 2012 as the trial date for the case. Three days have been set aside for the trial.

A pre-trial conference will be held on December 3 at 9 a.m.

TIMES JOURNAL Russell Springs

Up to 24 soldiers will be paired with local anglers to form fishing groups for the first annual Wounded Warriors Fishing Derby, which is being held Tuesday, September 11, 2012 at Wolf Creek National Fish Hatchery (NFH). Considered one of the finest fishing areas in the Eastern United States, Wounded Warriors will have the opportunity to fish Lake Cumberland, Cumberland River, and Hatchery Creek.

While some of the areas best-known fishing guides take the soldiers out to fish for strippers, other warriors will be treated to on-shore fishing for trout. A three hour rotation cycle will allow all anglers to take advantage of the great action just waiting to be had. With assistance from a network of guides and fishermen throughout the region and caring local and corporate sponsors, Wolf Creek NFH plans to host this event each year.

Inspired by the Friends of Wolf Creek NFH, the derby was developed to get wounded service members outside and help them recover by enjoying fishing experiences. Wolf Creek NFH anticipates wounded warriors will find a new comfort in the simple act of going out on a fishing trip. By their very nature, outdoor recreational activities are extremely therapeutic and have been shown through recent examples to make a difference in our returning warrior's lives.

Although angling is only one of those outdoor activities, it is one that can help our returning heroes escape the hardships of combat deployments and begin the process of assimilation back into the everyday life.

Veterans who suffered various injuries related to their service, including amputations, post-traumatic stress disorder, traumatic brain injury, paralysis, etc., are encouraged to participate.

All Kentucky Sport Fishing Regulations will apply. Lunch and fishing equipment will be provided. Pre-registration will be conducted through Wolf Creek

NFH.

Veterans are invited to the fishing derby through the Wounded Warrior Project, a non-profit agency that seeks "to honor and empower wounded warriors, and to foster the most successful, well-adjusted generation of wounded service members in our nation's history."

The basic schedule of events, all centered at Wolf Creek National Fish Hatchery.

* 6:30 a.m., soldiers will arrive at Wolf Creek NFH parking lot.

* 7-10:30 a.m. Group 1: Stripper fishing on Lake Cumberland.

* 7-10:30 a.m. Group 2: Trout fishing on Cumberland River or Hatchery Creek.

* 10:30-11:45 a.m., lunch.

* 12 noon to 3 p.m. Group 1: Trout fishing on Cumberland River or Hatchery Creek.

* 12 noon to 3 p.m. Group 2: Stripper fishing on Lake Cumberland.

Wolf Creek NFH works to provide unique, direct programs and services to meet the needs of injured service members.

Girls' golf team defeats Adair, Cumberland

The Clinton County girls' golf team played in the Barren County Invitational last weekend. The team didn't have a score in the top 20 of 44 players, but their scores were consistant and close together in the rankings. Ansley Stalcup finished the round with a 92, followed by Addison Bernard with a 103 and Samantha Stinson with a 105. Macy Campbell finished with a 110 while Bree Boils rounded out scoring for Clinton County with a 116.

During a match on July 31, the Lady Golf Dawgs defeated Adair County and Cumberland County by shooting a team score of 193, compared to Adair's 196 and Cumberland's 244. Bernard and Stalcup posted 47s while Boils shot a 48 and Stinson rounded out scoring with a 51.

As a team, Clinton County finished in the middle of the pack with a score of 410, compared to the winning team score of 332 shot by Glasgow.

Reed Sloan worked on getting out of the sand trap during a match last week at Dale Hollow State Resort Park.

Samantha Stinson hit her second shot on hole number nine last Tuesday during the Golf Dawgs' match.

Team USA shows a new why America is best, beyond all the medals

by Bob Watkins

Flag waving time in America. With our country's problems – hateful political discourse; the national debt, racism, on to a national obesity problem (Walmartians) – those who say America is in decline are wishful thinkers (Hugo Chavez), whistling past the graveyard (Iranian imam), or just don't get it (Cuba's Castro brothers).

Nice, 104 medals at the 30th Olympiad, 46 gold, 29 silver, 29 bronze. Well ahead of China, Russia and the rest.

But there is more than metal here.

Team USA took 530 athletes to London, 269 women and 261 men. Females outnumbered males at an Olympiad for the first time. Of 104, the women won 58 medals – 29 gold, 14 silver, 15 bronze. The men's medal count: 17, 15 and 13.

Superseding those totals and records set, is this: Opportunity. Title IX, a law passed in 1972 improved opportunities for women in sports.

With all our shortcomings, squabbles and shameless media rant to inflame, opportunity to succeed remains a linchpin to America's place on the planet. China and Russia flail away, some say cheat, while American athletes push to achieve at ever higher levels because they (we) can. Many of our champions in athletics will rise to be leaders in years to come.

Opportunity to become best of the best.

Wave the flag, America, I love this place.

SUMMER HOOPS TOP STORY?

Top story from summer basketball circuit? Take your choice ...

1. American men and women won gold medals at the Olympics in London.
2. Jabari Parker. A report this week said the nation's number one college prospect has narrowed his college list to three – Duke, Kansas and Michigan State.
3. Nerlens Noel is academically eligible to play at Kentucky.
4. Or, is it Kentucky's rise in the sports licensing industry?

According to internet site Bleacher Report, University of Kentucky deposited $6.73 million in merchandise royalties during fiscal year ending June 30. Near a 40 percent increase from 2011.

A Kentucky Wildcats 2012 NCAA Basketball National Champions t-shirt sells for $24.95. A UK basketball jersey – $74.95.

In a $4.6 billion industry, Kentucky climbed from seventh to third place in revenue rankings behind only Texas and Alabama (football schools?).

BEST OF BEST

USA's men's basketball team cruised to another gold medal and got the ultimate celebrity treatment doing it. Mike Krzyzewski would have it no other way, yet, the head coach has arrived at an extraordinary place in sports, seems to me.

Krzyzewski is more than college basketball's winningest coach (and counting), more than leader to four NCAA titles at Duke. His two USA gold medal unbeaten teams at the Olympics are stellar achievements also.

Yet, beyond those statistical accolades, Krzyzewski is becoming an American icon for success certainly, but more for humility, integrity and emphasis on what a college coach should be, an educator invested in educating those who need one.

Krzyzewski is indeed a Man for all seasons in all sports. Best of the best.

KENTUCKY OLYMPIANS

The Commonwealth made a solid contribution to Team USA's success in London.

Reese Hoffa, born in Louisville, earned a bronze in the shot; Tyson Gay of Lexington, won a silver in the 4x100 meter relay; Claire Donahue, a Western Kentucky University graduate won a gold medal in butterfly leg of 400-meter medley relay.

Angel McCoughtry, University of Louisville graduate, earned a gold in women's basketball. And, capping off a year for the ages, 19-year-old Anthony Davis and Cumberland's 244. Bernard and Stalcup posted 47s while Boils shot a 48 and Stinson rounded out scoring with a 51.

As a team, Clinton County finished in the middle of the pack with a score of 410, compared to the winning team score of 332 shot by Glasgow.

RAINNEY A RAVEN

Former Western star running back Bobby Rainey is still in the hunt for a job with the Baltimore Ravens. In an exhibition game last week, the Baltimore Sun reported, free agent Rainey rushed 12 times for 36 yards, caught three passes for 28 and a touchdown. He also returned six punts for 50 yards and a kickoff for 26.

"He's a football player," coach John Harbaugh said. "(Rainey) did the same things in the game today he's done in practice. And that's what you want to see. You want to see guys carry it over."

WORTH REPEATING DEPT.

Gauging his team's preseason work so far, Western Kentucky football coach Willie Taggart remarked last week a "noticeable absence of 'Freddie Soft.'"

Freddie what?

Freddie Soft, Taggart explained, is "a small guy who sits on players' shoulders and tells them not to work hard. The coach is happy to report that Freddie Soft has not made an appearance at practice yet this year.

"We still have a lot of work to do," he said.

But Freddie Soft has not been a problem.

And so it goes.

Private services were held in Florida.

Public dove fields added in southeast region

Dove hunters in southeastern Kentucky now have six additional public dove fields to enjoy this fall. Dove season opens statewide on Sept. 1.

"We had these fields come in a little late to make the deadline for the dove hunting guide," said Rocky Pritchert, migratory bird coordinator for the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources. "They will provide additional opportunity for our hunters."

These fields are open to public hunting Sept. 1, Sept. 3 and from Sept. 8 through Oct. 24. One of these fields in Lincoln County is closed Sept. 1 for a Mentor/Youth hunt.

Hunters interested in reserving a space for Mentor/Youth hunts must register by calling the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources at 1-800-858-1549 weekdays from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Eastern time. Limited spaces are allotted on a first-come, first-served basis. Registration is open through Aug. 27, or whenever all the slots are filled.

The additional public fields are located in Lincoln, Wayne, Pulaski and Whitley counties. The two fields in Wayne County lie beside one another, so the driving directions are identical.

Directions to the fields:

Lincoln County:

From Stanford, take U.S. 27 north for 0.16 mile to a left on to KY 590. Travel about 1.5 miles and turn left on a gravel lane and proceed to marked field and parking area. Closed Sept. 1 for Mentor/Youth Hunt; call 1-800-858-1549 for reservations.

Lincoln County:

From Stanford, take U.S. 150 southeast for 6 miles. After crossing Cedar Creek Lake dam, turn left onto Sportsman's Lane for 0.3 mile to the parking area at Cedar Creek Sportsman's Club.

Pulaski County:

From Somerset, take KY 80 west for 15.6 miles and take a right onto Hickory Nut Road. Travel Hickory Nut Road for 6 miles to field on right.

Wayne County:

Two fields located beside each other:

From Burnside, proceed west on KY 90 for 1.4 miles to a left on to KY 790. Travel for 10.8 miles and take a left onto Brammer Hill - Delta Road. Proceed 2.4 miles to a left onto Brammer Hill Ridge Road for 1.8 miles to field and parking area.

Whitley County:

From exit 25 of I-75 in Corbin, proceed west on U.S. 25 W for 5.9 miles and turn right onto Frankfort School Road. Go about 0.13 mile and take a right onto Ernest Alsip Road for 0.17 mile to field and marked parking area.

'Drive Sober or Get Pulled Over' DUI campaign in full force

The Kentucky State Police-Vehicle Enforcement will join other law enforcement across the nation by participating in a nationwide crackdown on impaired driving through the "Drive Sober or Get Pulled Over" campaign starting August 17th and lasting through September 3rd 2012.

KSP-Vehicle Enforcement will be out around the clock and in full force looking for and targeting impaired drivers. Officers will be conducting traffic safety check points along with high visibility enforcement in an effort to crackdown on impaired driving.

During this time officer will strictly enforce all violations. Drive Sober or Get Pulled Over.... No Warnings. No Excuses, No Exceptions.

KSP asks drivers to pay attention to school bus activity

Summer break ends for thousands of Kentucky students this week as they head back to school. For many children, getting to and from school will take place on a school bus. Unfortunately, every year children are injured and even killed in school bus related crashes.

Last year, Kentucky had 1,627 school bus related crashes resulting in 506 injuries and five deaths. With school starting in many communities, KSP Spokesman Tpr. Michael Webb is urging motorists to be alert for loading and unloading school buses.

"Nothing strikes fear in trooper's mind like getting a call that there has been a bus related crash," says Tpr. Michael Webb. "As a parent myself, I know how precious those children are and when they get on the bus, you place their safety in someone else's hands."

"Many parents worry about their child's safety once they set foot on the bus, but many of the injuries happen on the road outside of the bus," says Webb.

"As motorists, we need to take extra caution anytime we are in the vicinity of a school bus. Stop, slow down and look for children who may be loading or unloading from the bus" says Webb.

Webb says he thinks distracted drivers and those who speed in school zones often put children in more danger than anything else.

"Texting while driving and using a cell phone often take a driver's attention from the road," he says. "Many times inattentive drivers may not see stops signs, reduced speed limit signs or even the flashing lights of a school bus."

KSP is asking all motorists to be extra cautious as schools open this month and especially when maneuvering around school buses.

"It is a good reminder for all of us that we need to take extra precautions to get our children to school safely and law enforcement will be strictly enforcing speed zones in and around schools to ensure that happens."

Kentucky law states that if any school bus used in the transportation of children is stopped on a highway for the purpose of loading or unloading passengers, with the stop arm and signal lights activated, the operator of a vehicle approaching from any direction must stop and not proceed until the passengers have loaded/unloaded and the bus has been put in motion.

Passing a school bus while it is loading or unloading is a class B misdemeanor for the first offense and a class A misdemeanor for the second offense.

"As parents, we must reinforce proper school bus safety procedures with our children and this is the perfect time of year to talk with them," adds Webb.

KSP encourages parents to review the following school bus safety rules.

Getting on the school bus:

- When waiting for the bus, stay away from traffic and avoid roughhousing or other behavior that can lead to carelessness. Do not stray onto streets, alleys or private property.

- Line up away from the street or road as the school bus approaches.

- Wait until the bus has stopped and the door opens before stepping onto the roadway.
- Use the hand rail when stepping onto the bus.

Getting off the school bus

- If you have to cross the street in front of the bus, walk at least ten feet ahead of the bus along the side of the road, until you can turn around and see the driver.
- Make sure that the driver can see you.
- Wait for a signal from the driver before beginning to cross.
- When the driver signals, walk across the road, keeping an eye out for sudden traffic changes.
- Do not cross the center line of the road until the driver has signaled that it is safe for you to begin walking.
- Stay away from the bus' rear wheels at all times.

Correct way to cross the street

- Children should always stop at the curb or the edge of the road and look left, then right, and then left again before crossing.
- They should continue looking in this manner until they are safely across.
- If students' vision is blocked by a parked car or other obstacle, they should move out to where drivers can see them and they can see other vehicles -- then stop, and look left-right-left again.

Citizens can contribute to additional child safety by reporting drivers who disregard school bus signals to the Kentucky State Police toll-free at 1-800-222-5555 scheduled for Tuesday, August 14 (too late for press deadline.) He said he hoped there would be a lot of residents at that hearing in support of the project. (Details of that hearing will be published in next week's edition.)

The city is working with county government on the project and the major need for a new fire station is to help alleviate traffic congestion and increase fire department response time since the current fire station is located in the heavily congested area around several businesses and the stop light at US 127 and Hwy. 1590.

The council also heard a brief project update from Monarch Engineers, David Bowles. The only major ongoing project involves the utility line relocation for the bypass, which is now in the third and final phase.

Under section one of the project, the city is still awaiting the Department of Transportation to issue a change order approval federal loans or grants.

"It would be a conflict of interest," Key said. "Under the Hatch Act, you can not seek an office that is partisan."

In the position, Key would be able to run for city council or the school board because those seats are non-partisan. The magisterial position he seeks, however, is partisan because a candidate has to be elected representing a political party.

"I've always wanted to be in politics," Key said. "I've always wanted to run and I ain't getting any younger. Gayle Smith got me into politics. He gave me tickets to go to my first political rally. He had them and he and Barb couldn't go. He said he had these and you can go as long as you take Ira (Key) with you. I was 19 years old ... Louie Nunn was running his second time for governor we went out there to the rally at the high school."

In the 1980s, Key was the president of the Young Republican's Club prior to later serving as the Chairman of the Clinton County Republican party.

In addition to being involved in politics and his job as Outreach Specialist for Clinton County, Key has also been a member of the Clinton County Fair Board, which is a volunteer organization, for more than 20 years and is now vice-president.

"I've also been on the board of directors at Farm Bureau for more than 20 years," Key said.

Key started his job at the Lake Cumberland Community Action Agency on October 5, 2005. Ever since, he has brought help for those in need.

"I just love helping people," Key said. "We help low income people with heating assistance. That's one of our big projects."

Other than heating, Key's job also deals with weatherization programs, garden programs, scholarships for youth and referrals to other offices.

"We refer our clients somewhere else for help in other areas," Key said. "We can do a referral in order to help them get assistance with food or anything we can help them with."

Including all the programs offered at the Lake Cumberland Community Action Agency, Key offers aid to around 2,800 people each year.

"With the weatherization program, an energy audit is done on people's houses. They check where the leaks are and stuff like that," Key said. "They check out their heating system and make sure it's all in working condition. Sometimes they put in new windows, doors and heating systems under the stimulus packages. We were under it for a couple of years. It really helped a lot."

During the spring months, Key also helps with the garden program which provides a $30 - $40 voucher for garden items for and contract modification to relocate a 3-inch water line along the Mountain Drive area.

The second phase of the project, which began in March, was 99 percent complete as of early last week. That section took in the south Hwy. 127 area beginning at Hwy. 1590, extending southward to Hwy. 969 to Duvall Valley.

The third and final phase, which goes to the Tennessee state line, is underway and already 25 percent complete. That phase is located on south US 127 beginning at Ky. 969 near Spring Creek bridge and extends to the state line. Bowles estimated it would take two to three months from now to complete the final phase of relocating utility lines.

The council needed no discussion when the mayor recommended that the city tax rates for the coming 2013 year remain unchanged.

Councilman Smith also made the motion to keep the tax rates as it has been for the past several years, at .18 cents per $100 assessed value on personal property and .20 cents per $100 assessed value on motor vehicle and tangible property.

Mayor Smith then told the council he had been approached by a representative of Mediacom Cable with a proposal to switch the phone and internet service at city hall, including the water department, to that service and presented figures showing amounts of money the city could save compared to current rates being paid for phone and internet in both departments.

The figures presented revealed that the city could save around $292 per month, over $3,000 per year and approximately $10,500 over a three-year period, which was the time period for the contract with Mediacom if the city chose to switch services.

The mayor noted that although $3,000 plus per year wasn't a real significant amount, he added that every type of savings the city could come up with is important.

Following a brief discussion, Councilman Frankie Stockton moved to authorize the mayor to proceed with switching the city hall and water department phone and internet service for the three-year contract period, with the motion passing by unanimous vote.

Councilwoman Tonya Thrasher then moved to begin advertising for the city's commercial property insurance, which will come renewable in October. That motion also passed by unanimous vote.

Although the Halloween season is still over two months away, Thrasher also asked police chief Ernest Guffey about the city's trick-or-treat day, since Halloween this year will fall on a Wednesday, which is a church night for many.

Although the Halloween trick-or-treat day and hours will be officially announced in October, the police chief said he would prefer to keep the trick-or-treating on a Wednesday, in one way because it will be a church night and may keep down some of the normal mischief that occurs on that night.

Thrasher also suggested that the city may do something, in cooperation with local businesses, such as displaying ribbons, in memory of Aleigha Duvall, the little girl who was killed in a tragic accident that occurred on Halloween night last year.

The next regular meeting of Albany City Council is scheduled for September 4 at 5 p.m. at city hall and is open to the general public.

Advanced Placement studies toward receiving college credit. Those included: World History Briana L. Conner, Jacob M. Williams, William F. Cox, Dustin J. Daley, David V. Pierce, Matthew H. Savage, Christopher W. Shelton and Amanda G. Sloan. English Literature and Composition: William F. Cox, Jared P. Hunter, Wendell L. Maupin, Brittany Smith, Courtney S. Starnes, Natalie D. Duvall, Kiley Hoppe, Troy D. Butler, Leah Claborn, Ethan Cook, James England, Laura Groce, Destiny Guffey, Hailey Neal and Evan Shields. Chemistry: James A. Staton; and Calculus: William F. Cox.

The board then heard a presentation from agriculture instructor Matt Smith about the Farm-to-School Program for the Clinton County Schools. Smith had first presented the idea to the board and requested some matching funding for the project at last month's meeting.

Smith gave a lower cost estimate than previously planned, noting that about 50 percent of the greenhouse space would be used to grow tomatoes and other vegetables will also be grown to be used in the food service program at the schools. An estimated match for materials and equipment for the start-up was estimated at $2,174.00.

The board, on a motion by Junior Cecil, voted to allot the matching funds needed for the start-up of the Farm-to-School Program.

On a motion by board member Kevin Marcum, they also voted unanimously to match funds in the amount of approximately $4,100 for an equipment grant for the agriculture department that is being applied for through the Clinton County Agricultural Development Board. The equipment would be used to purchase equipment for the high school ag department to do work projects for local farmers.

Both Smith and CCHS Principal Sheldon Harlan noted that after initial start-up funding, both projects should become self-sufficient and possibly even produce revenues for the high school's agriculture program.

Jeff Pharis, Director of the Alternative School, then made a report on the status of the school.

He first noted the name change from "alternative" to Clear Creek Academy and noted the program would be moving toward being family oriented in keeping parents and guardians of students involved.

The two areas of the Academy will be Behavioral Discipline and even more importantly, Credit Recovery, where students can work to earn back credit needed to graduate high school.

Jeff Shelton, who has headed up the school for the past few years, said Clear Creek used a computer based academic program that was very stringent. Students can also still do extra curricular activities, such as Life Skills training, physical education class and JROTC.

On separate motions, the board granted medical leave of absences to Angela Renee Polston through September 10; Ronnie Gray through September 4; and Claris Brown through September 30.

After voting to approve between meeting disbursements and voting to pay claims and bills, Superintendent Charlotte Bernard then presented a lengthy personnel report, which included the following:

* Certified hired: Ashley McWhorter, teacher at CCECC; Tammie Conner, teacher at Albany Elementary; Nathan Garner, Athletic Director at the middle school; Rachel Amonett, Betsy Beaty, Michial Conner, Lora Grant, teachers at CCMS and Ashley Duvall, teacher at the high school.

* Certified transfers: Julie Daniels from Director of District Programs to Director of Pupil Personnel; Barbara McWhorter from CCMS teacher to Guidance Counselor; Thomas Davis from Home Hospital Instructor to Foothills Academy teacher; Darrell Thompson from CCHS teacher to Foothills Academy teacher; and Beverly Upchurch, from CCHS teacher to Home Hospital Instructor.

* Certified resignation: James Thaxton, head football coach at the middle school.

* Termination of contract: Rhonda Blankenshp, teacher at CCMS.

* Classified hired: Margaret England, Kindergarten aide and Tracy Foster, aide for special needs children, both at the Early Childhood Center; Nathan Boils, custodian and Susan Beasley and Rhonda Dicken, cooks at AES; Nikki Witherspoon, cook and Amanda Conyers, head girls' soccer coach, both at CCHS; Steven S. Burchett, 5th and 6th grade boys' basketball coach at CCMS and Nick Irwin, Security Officer, district wide.

* Classified transfers: Alice Morrison from CCECC aide to Paraprofessional II; Brenda Orton from Gear-Up Clerical Assistant to Early Childhood clerical assistant.

* Classified resignations: Petra Patton, cook at AES; Susan Pierce, cook at CCHS; Amanda Burchett and Crystal Adkins, bus drivers; and Joseph Glidewell, assistant football coach at the middle school.

* Substitute teachers: Reshea Norris, CCMS and Jennifer Neal, district wide.

The board, on a motion by Marcum, voted to establish a classified District Wide Program Liaison position for 220 days/ four hours a day at a rate of pay being $1,857.21 per month and to combine with the position of Community Education Director. The minimum education requirement will be a Bachelor's Degree effective August 13, 2012.

On a motion by board member Paula Key, the board voted to establish an aide position at the Early Childhood Center.

ECC Principal Tina Langford noted there was some 165 Kindergarten students alone enrolled this year at the school, which is the primary reason for the need for an extra aide. The average class size for kindergarten, due to the influx of students, is up from 20 to 24 per classroom.

On a motion by board chairman Ned Davis, board members voted to approve the following bids--reserving the right to use Kentucky Department of Education bid when state bids are at a lower cost per item: Fire extinguisher--Booth; First Aid kits--Zee Medical; Janitorial supplies--Kenway and Consolidated Paper Group; and Pest control--Somerset Pest.

The board, on a motion by Marcum, voted to propose setting the school district tax levy at the following rates for the 2012-13 school year: 38.4 cents per $100 assessed value on both real and personal property; .53 cents per $100 on motor vehicle and watercraft; and three percent for utilities. In the motion, the board also set Thursday, August 30 at 5 p.m. as the day and time for the hearing of public comments related to the proposed tax rates.

All rates listed above are the same as the past few years.

When presented with a recommendation by Director of Pupil Personnel Julie Daniels to approve Forward Edge Associates of Lexington to provide drug testing for students and employees for the upcoming school year, board attorney Lindsey Bell questioned a couple of issues not in the contract presented, including liability on behalf of the company itself and a 30-day period in which the board could void the contract, if necessary.

Following some discussion, the matter was tabled until those questions would be answered.

On a recommendation by Superintendent Bernard, a resolution authorizing the board chairman to execute a Deed of Conveyance to the Clinton County Fiscal Court conveying a strip of land known as "the connector road," connecting the middle school property to the US 127 Bypass, was also tabled to a later time.

The last item voted on by the board Monday was to approve an overnight trip for the varsity volleyball team to McCreary County on August 17 through August 18.

On a motion by Marcum, the board then entered into closed session to discussion "pending or proposed litigation" with no official action being taken upon returning to open session.

The next regular meeting of the Clinton County Board of Education is scheduled for Monday, September 10 at 5 p.m. at the Central Office board room and is open to the general public.

location of the firm she spent the summer working at that made the experience an opportunity that she will forever remember.

Stearns spent this past summer interning for Akerman Senterfitt, LLP, a large law firm located in Washington, D.C.

"This summer in Washington D.C. has sincerely been a remarkable experience," Stearns told the Clinton County News recently during a series of emails about the internship opportunity. "This great opportunity has allowed me to grow both professionally and academically."

Stearns, the daughter of Terry K. Stearns and Patricia D. Stearns, of Albany, said the summer experience was made possible through an academic internship program known as The Washington Center.

She was selected for the program through a competitive application process that led to her being chosen for the internship program.

"The Washington Center helped me receive my internship at Akerman Senterfitt LLP," Stearns explained. "Additionally, I registered for an academic course, and the Political Leadership Seminar Program."

Stearns spent a considerable amount of her summer internship working directly with the governmental leaders in Washington.

"My supervisor is a public policy advisor on matters involving higher education and workforce development," Stearns said. "My roles and responsibilities here include attending Congressional hearings and markups, creating in-depth summaries for Congressional hearings, markups, and proposed legislation. In addition, I am required to review and research various reports generated by House and Senate committees."

Stearns added that while a good amount of her time and duties were directly linked to the Congressional process, she was also able to be involved in other areas that made her experience even more meaningful.

"I volunteered for the Veterans Civic Engagement Project. This opportunity allowed me to participate as a volunteer at the 32nd National Veteran Wheelchair Games held in Richmond, VA. During this project I provided water, towels, and ice packs to disabled veteran competitors. In addition, I interacted and conversed with our United States veterans," Stearns added. "This was truly a rewarding experience."

She added that her summer internship in our nation's capitol also afforded her a host of other opportunities, including meeting some of our nation's leaders such as Congressman Ed Whitfield (R-Hopkinsville), whose 1st U.S. Congressional District includes Clinton County.

"A highlight of this time was meeting with Congressman Whitfield and discussing various topics - including Albany, Kentucky," Stearns said.

Stearns said that her experiences in Washington D.C. this summer with Akerman Senterfitt should be something that will certainly benefit her in her chosen career path.

"My time in D.C. will definitely benefit my future," Stearns said. "As a Political Science major at Eastern Kentucky University, I can take the experiences and knowledge I have witnessed here back to my home institution, and on to my prospective career path."

Freddy Farm Bureau set for 55th appearance at the Kentucky State Fair

With his clothes freshly pressed, a ready smile and a seemingly endless array of agricultural trivia at his giant fingertips, Freddy Farm Bureau is set to take a short leave from life on the farm and spend some quality time with the many visitors at the Kentucky State Fair in Louisville, August 16-26.

Freddy, seated comfortably on his hay bale on the front porch of Freedom Hall during the state fair, has become an icon at the annual event.

This year will mark the 55th time that Freddy Farm Bureau has greeted fairgoers with his winning personality and uncanny ability to work the crowd with his family-friendly banter. He enjoys sharing his knowledge of Kentucky agriculture with his visitors, but Freddy also takes his role as the most-recognizable greeter at the state fair very seriously.

Over the years, Freddy Farm Bureau has become an unofficial meeting place for many fairgoers, allowing him to talk with literally thousands of people as they wait by his hay bale for their friends and family to arrive.

As even the casual passerby can imagine, it takes a big man to handle the duties given to Freddy. The good news for Kentucky Farm Bureau's biggest member is that it seems like he was custom-made for telling Kentucky's story of agriculture. Neither is

Freddy alone in his duties – he represents more than 500,000 Farm Bureau member families in the state of Kentucky.

Whether fairgoers are visiting Freddy Farm Bureau for the very first time or simply reminiscing about their childhood talks with the big man, they'll want to save a few minutes of their state fair schedule to see him this year. He's up and ready to talk each day of the Kentucky State Fair from 9 am to 8 pm.

To further his ability to interact with fairgoers, Freddy Farm Bureau is now also active on Facebook and encouraging his many friends from around the state to "Like" his new page. He will be quite active on the page during this year's state fair and even has an interactive contest hidden up his enormous sleeve for those that choose to follow his activity. Fairgoers can search for Freddy Farm Bureau on Facebook to participate in the social media fun.

It's the ideal time to reseed pastures

By Katie Pratt

As with many of the state's crops, Kentucky cool-season forages have taken a hit from the drought and high temperatures. According to the Kentucky Weekly Crop and Weather Report released Aug. 13, more than half of the state's pastures were considered in poor or very poor condition.

August and September is the ideal time to reseed those pastures, said Ray Smith, extension forage specialist with the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture.

Before planting producers should have their soil tested and fertilize according to the test's recommendations.

"Annual fertilizer applications are important for hay and silage, because high levels of nutrients are removed during the harvest," Smith said. "Soil testing is important, especially with high fertilizer prices, to make sure you are not over applying nutrients."

Producers may bring soil samples to any local office of the UK Cooperative Extension Service. Extension personnel then send the samples to one of the UK soil testing labs. There is a minimal fee for a soil test.

When selecting a forage variety, producers will want to choose one that performs well in Kentucky. Variety trials are available on the UK Forage website at <http://www.uky.edu/ag/forage> or through the local office of the UK Cooperative Extension Service. Alfalfa and alfalfa-orchardgrass mixes should be planted on deep, well-drained soils that are level to gently sloping. Cool-season grasses like tall fescue or Kentucky bluegrass can be planted on steeper ground to minimize soil erosion. Horse owners should not seed KY-31 tall fescue on pastures where they plan to graze pregnant mares, but other tall fescue varieties are fine.

The ideal time to reseed depends on the type of forage a producer selects. Producers planting alfalfa should do so as soon as possible. Those planting cool-season perennial grasses like orchardgrass or tall fescue should do so between the end of August and the middle of September.

Poor pasture conditions have caused some producers to tap into their hay supplies this summer, resulting in lower supplies for the winter. Those needing an immediate source of fall forage should consider seeding fields with annuals like small grains, annual ryegrass and/or brassicas.

"Cereal rye will provide the quickest growth of any small grain and can be grazed as early as four weeks after emergence," Smith said. "It also provides the earliest spring growth and can often be grazed starting in late February in most areas of Kentucky."

While the drought has damaged the pastures, many annual warm-season weeds have thrived. These weeds will die naturally in the fall when the temperatures turn cooler. If producers are reseeding forages into a heavily weeded field, they may want to mow the weeds down to reduce production of new weed seed and to ensure that the grass seed gets good soil contact, said J.D. Green, UK extension weeds specialist. In some fields, use of a foliar, non-residual herbicide, such as glyphosate or paraquat, may be necessary before seeding to suppress growth of existing vegetation.

"Producers should not spray other pasture herbicides before or soon after reseeding, as doing so will increase the risk of injury to new grasses," Green said.

When reseeding, it's important to use recommended seeding rates and depth. Tillage will improve seed-to-soil contact. However, no-till reseeding is encouraged on sloping pastures, Smith said.

As new stands of cool-season perennials emerge, producers should not immediately turn their animals on them for grazing.

"Overgrazing newly seeded areas is one of the major causes of seeding failures when seeding cool-season perennials," Smith said. "One good option is to allow the stand to grow to maturity and cut for hay before grazing or use light grazing. Newly seeded perennial stands often require 12 months to develop a fully established sod."

That's how many Kentucky adults read a daily, Sunday or weekly newspaper during an average week.

That's more than 5 out of 6 people.

And truth be told, we like to think that 6th person might be listening while one of the other five reads out loud.

Roanoke Colony deserted

August 18, 1590
John White, the governor of Roanoke Island colony in present-day North Carolina, returns from a supply trip to England to find the settlement deserted. White and his men found no trace of the 100 or so colonists he left behind, and there were no sign of violence. Among the missing were Ellinor Dare, White’s daughter; and Virginia Dare, White’s granddaughter and the first English child born in American. August 18 was to have been Virginia’s third birthday. The only clue to their mysterious disappearance was the word “CROATOAN” carved into the palisade that had been built around the settlement. White took the letters to mean that the colonists had moved Croatoan Island, some 50 miles away, but a later search of the island found none of the settlers.

The Roanoke Island colony, the first English settlement in the New World, was founded by English explorer Sir Walter Raleigh in August 1585. The first Roanoke colonists did not fare well, suffering from dwindling food supplies and Indian attacks, and in 1586 they returned to England aboard a ship captained by Sir Francis Drake. In 1587, Raleigh sent out another group of 100 colonists under John White. White returned to England to procure more supplies, but the war with Spain delayed his return to Roanoke. By the time he finally returned in August 1590, everyone had vanished. In 1998, archaeologists studying tree-ring data from Virginia found that extreme drought conditions persisted between 1587 and 1589. These conditions undoubtedly contributed to the demise of the so-called Lost Colony, but where the settlers went after they left Roanoke remains a mystery. One theory has them being absorbed into an Indian tribe known as the Croatans.

Ulysses S. Grant marries Julia Boggs Dent

August 22, 1848
On this day in 1848, future President Ulysses S. Grant marries Julia Boggs Dent. The couple had a relatively lengthy engagement, caused first by Julia’s father’s disapproval of his daughter marrying a poorly paid soldier and, later, by Grant’s absence while fighting in the Mexican-American War. At war’s end, he and Julia were finally wed, overcoming her father’s objections. Two years into their marriage, Grant was ordered away from his beloved wife and two small children to fulfill a tour of duty in California and Oregon. The loneliness and sheer boredom of duty in the West drove Grant to binge drinking. By 1854, Grant’s alcohol consumption so alarmed his superiors that he was asked to resign from the army. He did, and returned to Ohio to try his hand at farming and land speculation. Although he kicked the alcohol habit, he failed miserably at both vocations and was forced to take a job as a clerk in his father’s tanning business. If it were not for the Civil War, Grant might have slipped quickly into obscurity. Instead, he re-enlisted in the army in 1861 and embarked on a stellar military career. In 1863, after leading a Union Army to victory at Vicksburg, Grant caught President Lincoln’s attention. The Union Army had suffered under the service of a series of incompetent generals and Lincoln was in the market for a new Union supreme commander. President Lincoln kept an eye on Grant’s moods and tendency toward depression, sending Julia to join Grant wherever he was posted. The level-headed and good-natured Julia followed him around the country, helping to soothe and cheer him in the mist of the terrible war. However, despite Julia’s attention, Grant’s tendency to binge-drink re-emerged and he developed another unhealthy habit: chain smoking cigars. According to her biographers at the National First Ladies Library, Julia reveled in being first lady, particularly after living in abject poverty and constant flux since her marriage to Grant. Julia hosted lavish state dinners and festivities at the White House. However, upon leaving office, the Grants’ fortunes again declined. They traveled to Europe between 1877 and 1879 amid great fanfare, but returned home to bankruptcy caused by Grant’s unwise investment in a scandal-prone banking firm. Grant spent the last few years of his life writing a detailed account of the Civil War and, after he died of throat cancer in 1885, Julia lived on the royalties earned from his memoirs. Before his death, Grant had made a deal with his friend Mark Twain to publish his memoirs. After his death, Julia received about $450,000, suggesting a royalty of 30 percent.

Kentucky Facts and Trivia

The town of Corbin was the birthplace of old time movie star Arthur Lake whose real surname was Silverlake. He played the role of Dagwood in the “Blondie” films of the 1930s and ‘40s. Lake’s father and uncle were trapeze artists billed as The Flying Silverlakes. His mother, Edith, was an actress. Later, Lake’s parents appeared in vaudeville travelling throughout the South and Southwest United States. Arthur first appeared on stage as a baby in Uncle Tom’s Cabin and he and his sister, Florence, became part of the act in 1910. Their mother brought the children to Hollywood to get into films. Arthur made his debut in the silent Jack and the Beanstalk in 1917. Best known as portraying the Blondie comic strip character Dagwood Bumstead, Lake appeared in 28 Blondie films produced by Columbia Pictures from 1938 until 1950. He has a star on the Hollywood Walk of Fame and was once questioned in the “Black Dahlia” murder case. Lake became friendly with newspaper tycoon William Randolph Hurst and his mistress Marion Davies. He was a frequent guest at the beach house of Davies, where he met Patricia Van Cleeve. Lake and Van Cleeve were married in 1937. The parentage of Van Cleeve is unclear, but at the time of her death, she is reported to have claimed to be the daughter of Davies and Hurst. Arthur and Patricia were married almost 50 years, until his death at 81 in January of 1987. She died in October of 1993 at age 70. They had two children, Arthur Patrick Lake (b.1943) and Marion Rose Lake (b. 1944). Both Arthur and Patricia are interred in the same crypt as Marion Davies in California.

Rollercoaster Yard Sale set for October 4-6

Attention all YARD SALE ENTHUSIASTS! The 27th Annual Rollercoaster Yard Sale is scheduled for October 4-6, 2012. Make plans now to set up for the event or plan your treasure hunt.

The Rollercoaster Yard Sale is one of the oldest and most authentic marathon yard sales in Tennessee and Kentucky making a complete loop around Dale Hollow Lake. It offers the unique opportunity to make the most of your mileage by beginning and ending at any point along the route with the ability to complete the loop from any location or choose a prime section.

Organizers encourage shoppers to explore the entire route across the miles of rolling hills and hollows surrounding Dale Hollow Lake. It's a great time of year to enjoy the cooler weather and stock up for the holiday and winter months ahead.

With over 150 scenic miles of treasure hunting possibilities, you can't miss! Autumn's bounty is all around.

Not only are there yard sales and bargains galore, but there are so many small shops, farmers' markets, produce stands and eateries along the route which are also treasures. You might want to extend your stay to linger longer at some locations.

The variety of mouth-watering barbeque alone is enough to keep you coming back for more. BBQ is big along the Rollercoaster Yard Sale Route as is good old fashioned country cooking. Farmer's markets and stands will be filled with the harvest.

Crafters bring out their wares making it a great time to pick up those special holiday gifts! You will also find many souvenir items, flea market finds, antiques and collectibles. The rich history and local parks offer a plethora of things to do for the non-yard sale friends.

Bring along the entire family and make a week (or more) of it and enjoy the ride on the rollercoaster route.

Fall will be in the air and the local hospitality ready to shine!

For those of you with items that you would like to sell this is an excellent opportunity to take advantage of the cooperative marketing efforts of the eight counties from two states involved in promoting this event - neighbor helping neighbor to boost the local economies by bringing in visitors.

Civic organizations are encouraged to plan fundraisers and roll out the welcome mat. If you would like to list your individual yard sale on the internet, www.garagesalestracker.com would like to help. Just visit their website to create your listing.

Many of the communities offer special events to complement the Rollercoaster Yard Sale. There are car shows in Burkesville, KY and Byrdstown, TN, an Antique Tractor & Truck Pull and the ever popular Lions Club Pancake Breakfast Fundraiser in Celina, TN, plus Mud Lick Bar-B-Que will be available in Mud Lick, KY, live bluegrass music and the Dale Hollow Bass Classic Fishing Tournament in Byrdstown, TN with possible additional events to be added.

NEew for 2012 is the Hog Eye Fest in Livingston, TN on October 6th from 10:00AM-10:00PM on the Courthouse Square. This event was previously held in June each year, but organizers decided it would be much more fun to have it during the Rollercoaster Yard Sale. The event will feature live music, crafts, ice cream contest, wagon rides, and many other activities.

Be sure to check the events calendar on the www.TheRollercoasterYardSale.com website for all the latest additions/changes. Also, we've just added a page on Facebook. Like us at www.facebook.com/rcyardsale.

Dale Hollow Lake is a fisherman's paradise. The fish should be biting well as the weather begins to cool. It's still warm enough to enjoy boating or houseboating ...perfect to spend the day on the road seeking out bargains and evenings relaxing on the refreshing waters of Dale Hollow Lake.

Don't forget to spend some time off the road too. You won't want to miss the beauty of the Caves of the Cave City area or the wonders of Glasgow, both located at the northwestern end of the route in Kentucky.

The sale route covers over 150 miles through 25 communities/towns and lasts for three days with an abundance of yard sales, flea markets, crafts, antiques, handcrafted quilts, produce, BBQ, southern food, entertainment, parks, recreation areas, historic sites, picturesque small town squares and so much more! You never know what you might find.

Come see what treasures await you! Gather your shopping friends, hop into your RV or other vehicles and make your way to the Rollercoaster Yard Sale!

The brochure is available for download at www.TheRollercoasterYardSale.com.

Insurance, ACRE payments on drought-stressed crops will vary

By Katie Pratt

With much of the state's corn crop prospects deteriorated, producers have been contacting their crop insurance agents, examining their insurance policies and wondering how they might be compensated.

"It is very likely that between 88 and 92 percent of the state's corn acreage was insured," said Cory Walters, University of Kentucky College of Agriculture economist.

Producers who suspect they have a yield loss should contact their crop insurance agents for further instruction on their crop.

Due to the condition of the crop, many producers will likely receive some type of crop insurance payment. Payments will vary, depending on a producer's coverage level, insurance type and unit type.

By examining the schedule of insurance in their policies, producers can review their insurance decisions. Due to the various decisions associated with a Multiple Peril Crop Insurance policy, Walters estimated that crop insurance premiums cost Kentucky producers somewhere between $7 and $20 per acre.

"Higher coverage levels imply a higher bushel guarantee and therefore a higher possibility of payments," Walters said. "Higher coverage levels have higher insurance premiums."

Revenue protection insurance is the most common type of insurance policy. Each policy will have a revenue guarantee. Guarantees vary among producers depending upon the percentage of the crop they insured, their actual production history and whether they elected to use the harvest price or the projected harvest price to calculate a potential payment.

Payments are triggered when a producer's yield multiplied by the national price is less than their revenue guarantee.

Producers enrolled in the U.S. Department of Agriculture's risk protection program, Average Crop Revenue Election, could also receive payments this year. For this to occur, Kentucky corn crop revenues must be less than the state's ACRE revenue guarantee. The state revenue guarantee is calculated by multiplying the average U.S. cash prices for a commodity for the past two years by the state average yields for the past five years, exempting the highest and lowest yielding years. The USDA Farm Service Agency estimated the Kentucky preliminary ACRE revenue guarantee to be $573. Annual state revenue is calculated by multiplying the state yield by the ACRE national average market price. Yields and market price for this year are still unknown.

Once the state qualifies for ACRE payments, individuals must show their farm-level revenue is less than the ACRE benchmark for farms. This benchmark is calculated by multiplying the farm's five-year average crop yields, subtracting the highest and lowest yielding years by the two-year ACRE program price plus crop insurance premiums.

For more information and calculations on yield requirements for possible payments and payment projections, see the UK extension publications, "Investigating Your Crop Insurance Policy in Front of a Drought" and "2012 Kentucky Corn and Soybean ACRE Payment Prospects".

Both are available online at <http://www.ca.uky.edu/agecon/index.php?p=110>. The Kentucky Drought Resources Web page has additional information for producers. It is available at <http://drought.ca.uky.edu>.

Also being sold: 1980 Sterling manufactured home VIN #70143606

The successful bidder or bidders may elect to pay the purchase price in full at the time of the sale or be required to pay ten (10%) percent of bid purchase price down on the date of the sale and balance of purchase price will be due and payable on or before 30 days from the date of the sale with interest thereon at the rate of 12% per annum; however, the purchaser may pay all or part of the purchase price prior to the maturity with all accrued interest due at the time of the said payment. If the sale be had on credit, the purchaser shall execute and deliver to the order of the Master Commissioner, his or her bond due and payable in 30 days, bearing interest at the legal rate of twelve percent (12%) per annum from date of sale until paid, with good and sufficient surety thereon and said sale shall likewise be secured by a lien upon the said property sold, which shall have the same force and effect of a judgment and said bond with acceptable surety shall be executed immediately after the sale; upon default of the terms of said bond the Master Commissioner shall immediately resell the property on the same terms and conditions set out herein.

The 2012 and subsequent property taxes shall be paid by the Purchaser.

HON. NORBERT H. SOHM
MASTER COMMISSIONER
CLINTON CIRCUIT COURT

Public Hearing

In accordance with the provisions of HB 44 enacted by the 1979 Kentucky General Assembly, a public hearing has been set by the Clinton County Public Library District Board of Trustees for August 22, 2012 at 8:15 a.m. at the Clinton County Public Library. The purpose of the Hearing is to inform the public that the Clinton County Public Library District is proposing the 3.0 cent tax rate with anticipated revenue of $113,582.00. This tax rate reflects a four percent increase in anticipated revenue. The tax rate for the preceding year was 2.80 cents with the anticipated revenue of $104,399.00. The compensating tax rate is 2.9 cents with anticipated revenue of $109,796.00. The expected revenue from personal property is $20,151.00. Increase for the 2012 budget year is needed due to the rising cost of books, library materials, technology, equipment and building maintenance.
